From Our Director, Jody Cole

Thanks for celebrating with us! We had a sunny day and many vendors, crafts, authors, the Town Band, the Sharps, a chicken barbeque, a book sale, and fun for all. We’re grateful for all of the help we received. And we’re especially grateful to Hub City, Thomas P. Gleason, Esq., and BJ’s for sponsoring us. Marie Hershey won the quilt, and we hope it keeps her hands warm because she uses them to bake yummy treats that she shares with us!

Happy for autumn and all it brings, we have a lineup of youth programs and our i-devices program. This month, we’ll also have a presentation on October 9 to create awareness of mental illness for Mental Illness Awareness Week, and we’ll have a Basics of Budgeting program at the end of the month—October 30. Hope to see you at the library!

Looking at Lincoln

THE GILDER LEHRMAN INSTITUTE of AMERICAN HISTORY

The Shippensburg Public Library is fortunate to have received a grant from the Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History to display their exhibit about Abraham Lincoln.

According to the Gilder Lehrman Institute, "the Looking at Lincoln exhibition explores the Civil War and issues of slavery through political cartoons depicting Abraham Lincoln and his policies. These cartoons are vividly biting; they invite us to put aside twenty-first-century assumptions and look at events through the eyes of people living in the era. Among the highlights are: a California printing of the Emancipation Proclamation signed by Abraham Lincoln and political cartoons relating to the election of 1860. As Americans continue to debate the legacy of slavery, these cartoons provide a historical point of reference for current events."

"Founded in 1994 by Richard Gilder and Lewis E. Lehrman, the Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History is the leading American history nonprofit organization dedicated to K–12 education while also serving the general public. The Institute’s mission is to promote the knowledge and understanding of American history through educational programs and resources."

The exhibit will be on display at the Shippensburg Public Library from Tuesday, September 25 - Wednesday, October 24, 2018.

This workshop is designed to help attendees plan for their future, create a budget, and communicate their strategy to those closest to them. During the workshop, they'll learn:

- How to manage money as they work toward their goals.
- How to develop a budget.
- Ways to discuss finances with others.

In his position as a financial advisor, Josh helps people be wise with their money so they can plan for the future and find new ways to be generous with what they have. Hailing from Shippensburg, he lives with his wife and miniature poodle in Carlisle where he loves to spend his free time reading, doing wood work, and golfing.

An Informative Evening

Andrew Williams, a thirty-year veteran of the British Army Reserves, and an eleven-year resident of Shippensburg, presented a program at the Shippensburg Public Library on August 29th entitled Refuse to Be a Victim. His vast experience provided attendees with strategies at home, in public places, and in parking lots. Practical suggestions for the home were numerous, including locking doors and windows, keeping shrubs trimmed, and having outside lighting. Other tips included using alarm stickers and beware of dog signs, even if you don't actually have these things. Easily available hardware items to increase security were shown. Williams urged audience members to use their intuition if a situation doesn't feel right and act accordingly. Car safety measures demonstrated included checking the back seat before entering, locking the car immediately upon entering, then starting the car. Williams provided numerous practical, logical measures for keeping safe and secure both at home and away.

Thanks, Andrew, for sharing your expertise!

October Authors

R. L. (Robert Lawrence) Stine (October 8, 1943) Stine is a novelist, television producer, and editor, best known for his children's horror fiction. Stine's writing career began at age nine when he found an old typewriter in the attic and began writing joke books. After attending Ohio State, Stine went to New York City where he wrote for magazines. After losing his job at Scholastic, Stine began writing children's stories, including Goosebumps, Fear Street, and Mostly Ghostly series. Although these books contain some dark misadventures of young people, they are tempered with humor. His books have sold over 350 million copies and have been translated into 32 languages. They have been adapted into film. Among his achievements, Stine has stated that he is proud of the fact that his books have gotten boys to read.

Conrad Richter (October 13, 1890) A native Pennsylvanian, Richter was born in Pine Grove, PA. Among his ancestors were a congressman, minister, and a War of 1812 hero. Although family members had a tradition of being in the ministry, Richter opted for a career in writing. He had a varied career beginning as a secretary to a wealthy family. His early stories were published in well-known magazines including The Saturday Evening Post. He lived near Harrisburg for many years, but moved to the southwest due to his wife's illness. His stories are historical fiction rich in detail. The Light in the Forest details a white boy's struggle... as he is captured by an Indian tribe, becomes assimilated, and then returns to his family. This story and Richter's trilogy, The Awakening Land, are set in Pennsylvania. Thematically the stories focus on the pioneer experience and family struggles during a time of growth and change in America.

David John Cornwell (Pen name, John LeCarre) October 19, 1931

Born in England to a con man, Ronnie and his wife, Olive, his childhood was difficult. His father was imprisoned for fraud and was often in debt. His mother left when he was five, and they were not reunited until Cornwell was an adult. He was educated at various schools and was recruited at 16 by M16, the British intelligence agency. He had studied foreign languages, and was eventually used to interrogate defectors from the Eastern Bloc. Cornwell entered Oxford University in 1952 and graduated in 1956 with a degree in modern languages. For a time, 1958-60, he taught at Eton College, then returned to work for M16. His novels reflected many of his experiences, including The Spy Who Came In From the Cold (1963) and Tinker Tailor Soldier Spy (1974), two of his best known works. His pen name was a result of M16's refusal to allow him to use his real name on his books. He retired from intelligence work in 1956 to write full time. He was married twice and has four sons.
