From Our Director, Jody Cole

It’s a good thing we’re starting out the month with Labor Day because the rest of the month will be a blur! Thank you, everyone, for all the work you do to support us, and rest up before we start our hectic but good month of September. Parts of the library will be closed, and the entire library will be closed for a few days of the month while we make some improvements to the Stewart House. We will be working in the front section of the building on September 9th, 10th, and maybe 11th, so there will be no access to DVDs and audiobooks. Please come in and make your selections before then. Later in the month, on September 23rd and 24th, and maybe the 25th, we will be closed. In the middle of the improvements, we are doing some staff training on community engagement in connection with the Free Library of Philadelphia. Even though all of these things are happening, we’ll be continuing with our fall programming. See descriptions of them in this newsletter. Please remember to register. Some of the programs are already full! At the end of the month, on September 28th, we’ll conclude by celebrating our community library. We’ll have some vendors, crafts, music, a book signing, and lots of fun! We’ll unveil our new sign with our new name, too! Please join us, and bear with us, as we make improvements and changes to our building and train our staff further so we can serve you!

Special Award

Library tours
We want to congratulate Geri Bazner for receiving the award of 2019 Friend of the Year from Pennsylvania Citizens for Better Libraries. Geri puts in hundreds of hours in volunteering with Friends, as well as for the Library directly. Neva Craig, President of the Friends says of Geri, “she is the first one to raise her hand and always asks ‘what can I do to help’ ”. Geri joined Friends seven years ago and quickly became indispensable. From being an integral part of the Friends Amazon Bookstore group to volunteering at various community events and fundraisers for the Friends and the library, Geri shares her enthusiasm with everyone she meets.

Food and Mood Workshop

You've heard the phrase, “You are what you eat.” You also feel what you eat. Changing what you eat is an easy and inexpensive way to support your emotional health.

Join Susan Stewart, LMFT, MDiv, an integrative mental health provider, for a free seminar and discover how food plays a vital role in our moods and stress levels. In this short workshop, she will explore food as medicine – what to add and what to avoid – in dealing with anxiety, depression, energy levels and stress responses. You’ll come away with simple tips and recipes to feel better and more in control of your emotional health.

Two Dates available:
- Thursday, September 12, 2019 6 - 7:30 pm
- Thursday, October 24, 2019 6 - 7:30 pm

Registration is encouraged but not required. To register, or if you have questions, visit www.wholeandholy.net/events or call/text 717.217.9380.

Climate Up Close

Left to Right: Nadir Jeevanjee representing Princeton University, Jake Seeley representing Harvard University, Nathaniel Tarshish representing UC Berkeley, and Aaron Match representing Princeton University conducted a program on Climate Change at the Coy Public Library of Shippensburg on August 8th in the Community Room. They completed a week long tour working for Climate Up Close. Twenty-one community members were in attendance to hear the four scientists’ presentation. They began with three quotes regarding climate change that represented a full political spectrum and proceeded to cite significant errors in each quote. They stated that the politicians’ information is not always in line with current scientific information. They discussed the impact of greenhouse gases as well as how to remediate this. They believe that Americans can reach their own judgments about climate change through the transparency of scientists. They believe in coming directly to the people and presenting their findings through conversation while encouraging questions. For more information see climateupclose.org.

Meeting Shippensburg's Police Chief

Shippensburg Chief of Police Meredith Dominick visited the Coy Public Library of Shippensburg Wednesday afternoon August 14th. Chief Dominick spoke to the assembled group about her job here in Shippensburg and answered questions posed to her. She said she finds Shippensburg to be a great community and is pleased to serve the citizens of our town.

Gardening Tips from a Curmudgeon

Karl Zimmerman, self-proclaimed gardening curmudgeon, gave his recommendations for Gardening in the 21st Century. Those in attendance learned how to maintain their gardens with a minimum of effort and habits to avoid. Karl answered questions and offered insight as to why shrubs and trees can play an important role in your landscape plans and what plants are better to plant in your garden.

BANNED BOOKS WEEK

Banned Books Week, September 22-28, 2019, is a celebration of our freedom, to read. This year’s theme is:

CENSORSHIP LEAVES US IN THE DARK.
KEEP THE LIGHT ON.

Offensive language, violence, gender issues, sensitive subject matter, sexually explicit content, and religious themes are among a few of the bases for challenges. Literature for all age groups has been targeted, from teen, young adult, and children’s literature. Books facing the challenges are often award-winning, popular literature. Fortunately, opponents of challenges do speak out to ensure that books containing important topics continue to be available to readers. Shown below are just a few of the books that have been banned over the years.
