Orienteering to Valley Meadows

Participate in our “Orienteering to Valley Meadows” activity to win great prizes, like these pedometers and fitness bracelets!

Music @ Bosler: Adeline Grace Riley

Join us in-person for our August Music @ Bosler concert featuring Adeline Grace Riley!
Orienteers can pick up a map, time sheet, and instructions sheet at the library and mark their time it took to travel from the library to Valley Meadows Park. Acceptable forms of travel include walking, bicycling, and driving.

Contact Community Relations at 717-243-4642 ext. 2226 to get started.

Available through August 31.

Adeline is your local queer artist and advocate from Boiling Springs. Currently considered indie/pop/folk, but is definitely not constrained to those genres when writing new music! Their style and tone can be described as “androgynous.” There’s something for everyone in Adeline’s storytelling: from equality to identity, to love and loss, to mental health and plain goofing around!

Free to the public. No Registration Required.

Friday, August 26 at 7:00 pm

The Music at Bosler series is made possible in part with support from concertgoers, and the Arts for All grant opportunity of the Greater Harrisburg Foundation, a regional foundation of The Foundation for Enhancing Communities.

Cumberland Valley Water Series: Connecting Us All

Join us for our educational series this September! This weekly series will improve community members’ understanding of our local Cumberland water resources, raise awareness about our personal relationships to these resources, and heighten our sense of personal agency to ensure future generations enjoy healthy stream ecosystems and clean water resources locally and globally.

Sessions will include “Local History and Watersheds,” “Life in and around Streams,” “Stormwater: Problems and Solutions,” and "Recreation and Conservation." Features speakers from ALLARM, Cumberland Valley Trout Unlimited, Cumberland County Conservation District, Penn State Master Watershed Stewards, and more.

Sessions are free, but registration is required. Click here to register for Cumberland Valley Waters: Connecting Us All.

Enjoy a Night Out and Support Bosler

Summer is the time to enjoy dining out. Why not support Bosler Memorial Library at the same time?

Bosler has had great success so far in partnering with Carlisle restaurants. As of August 15, patrons who supported both the library and local businesses with four dine-out fundraisers earlier this year helped Bosler raise $1,588.85. Thanks to all who participated!

If you missed the earlier events, you can help Bosler raise funds at these upcoming dine-out days:

Thursday, September 15 – Redd’s Smokehouse BBQ, 109 N. Hanover St., Carlisle
4:00 PM – 8:00 PM – Dine-in and takeout

Wednesday, October 12 – Applebee’s, 260 Noble Blvd., Carlisle
11:00 AM – 9:00 PM – Dine-in and takeout

Be sure to pick up restaurant flyers in the library, or print one from the Bosler web site.

Watch your inbox and the Bosler web site for more information on events later this year. We hope you’re enjoying this new way of supporting Bosler, and as always, thank you!

Lead Like a Pro

Join us for a virtual talk on leadership this August with Dr. Matthew Raidbard!
Dr. Matthew Raidbard has spent the past 15 years as a men's college basketball coach and senior level college athletics administrator. While pursuing his Doctorate in Educational Leadership, he conducted research on athletic coach leadership practice that led him to determine that coaches were not being provided the tools and resources required to take on the outsized leadership role they were asked to take on for their athletes and team. This discovery was the inspiration for his new lobby of the library during the month of September.

John Malatesta, author of the book, "Lead Like A Pro: Effective Leadership Styles For Athletic Coaches," where he provides coaches, at all levels of sports, with tools to enhance their leadership practice and become more effective leaders.

Thursday, August 25 at 6:30 pm

Program is free but registration is required.

GAME REVIEW

Summer Camp (Phil Walker-Harding for Buffalo Games)

The Monday Tabletop Gaming group tried something new from the Bosler Library games collection: Summer Camp. This game for two to four players has a 50's travel-poster vibe that sets a fun, relaxing tone. A deck-building game with race-to-the-finish points counting, it features a multi-piece main board, individual player boards, numerous specialized card decks, snack bar pieces and several kinds of badges.

Setting up the board takes a little time, but the instruction booklet has a clear illustration of how it should look when everything is in place. Read the descriptions of the card decks carefully to put things in their right locations. Note that for first time players, using the outdoors, water sports, and cooking decks is recommended.

Getting started with play was not so clear-cut. The instructions booklet covers using “energy” gained in the game, but doesn’t say is where the energy comes from. In small print near the top center of the individual player boards, it’s noted that the cards you hold can be played either as energy points, or for the actions they allow you to take. Other energy comes from snack bars, which are collected as play progresses.

Once we sorted out the energy quandary, game play was quick and interesting. The challenge is to assemble a hand of cards with the best strategy for moving forward on the board, thus gaining badges, which in turn give points. Some of the cards have point values shown in the lower right-hand corner, so those holding those cards at the end of the game are also awarded points. For folks who don’t make it to the last space on the board by game’s end, there are points awarded for placement in the last section as well. At the end of our game, which took about 90 minutes once the board was set up, the person who won wasn’t the one who got to the finish first; the card points held by the winner put them over the top to victory.

All in all, it was an engaging, entertaining game. The Monday Tabletop Gaming group recommends the Summer Camp board game. It's available to be taken out from the library on your Bosler Library card.

Join our Monday Tabletop Gaming group every Monday from 4:30 pm to 8:30 pm! All are welcome!
