College Reading Strategies

Tuesday, January 28, February 4 and
February 11 from 6:30 to 7:15 pm

Registration required

Reading assignments can seem overwhelming in the first year of college, regardless of whether you've taken AP courses and consider yourself an avid reader. This 3-session workshop series on developing and practicing reading strategies for college is offered by Dr. Kelly Whitcomb, who provides reading workshops for students at a local college. We'll cover topics such as how to read textbooks and take effective notes for tests, how to read whole books for discussions and papers, and how to develop skills to skim for important information. Participants should plan to attend each of the three 45-minute sessions.

Ages 16 and up.

College Writing Strategies

Tuesday, February 25, March 3, and
March 10 from 6:30 to 7:15 pm

Registration required

Writing for college can be challenging due to different expectations for different disciplines and instructors, as well as the detailed attention any excellent piece of writing demands. This 3-session workshop series on developing and practicing skills for college writing is offered by Dr. Kelly Whitcomb, who teaches first-year writing and offers workshops and one-on-one assistance with writing for students at a local college. We'll discuss expectations for writing for different disciplines in college, as well as explore reliable resources and tools to use as references with college writing. Participants should plan to attend each of the three 45-minute sessions. Ages 16 and up.
